

Here's a diagram I created to suggest how we might thinking about changing LED states. In order for this to work, we would have to have a rule that you can't start going from state 1 to state 2 until all of the delays involved in going from state 0 to state 1 have been processed.

